

Kane Clings onto Proton QLD Series Lead

A recent run of misfortune has enabled Darren Kane's rivals to close in on him in the overall Proton Queensland Super Sedan Series point standings with a single round remaining, but he is keeping a cool head.

Despite holding down a slim 90 point lead heading into the 18th and final round at Brisbane International Speedway on Saturday night, May 28; the Boettcher Racing Team driver is confident of overcoming his recent run of misfortune and is determined to wrap up the series on a winning note.

“We’re heading into the final round aiming to win and nothing else,” he confidently said, who is having a similar run to what he had leading up to wrapping up the National Series earlier this season. “Our run of bad luck hasn’t got the team down, if anything, it’s made us more determined to not let it spoil our winning chances.”

The most recent story of misfortune for Kane came just last weekend at Gympie’s Mothar Mountain Speedway. Kane was comfortably leading the feature race, after he had dominated the earlier heat races, and looked set for victory lane only to suffer steering damage, caused from an incident from a previous round, that put paid to his winning hopes and he was forced to retire. At the round before that, Toowoomba’s Charlton Raceway, Kane had a tough night and finished back in eighth place, while the round prior to that, once again at Mothar Mountain Speedway, he was unable to start the feature race due to suffering a gear selector issue on the dummy grid in the pits.

“I don’t know what else to say other than it’s just plain bad luck, as our team works extremely hard to give me the best possible car, but sometimes things just creep in and there isn’t much you can do about it,” explained Kane. “Despite the bad luck we’ve had the fastest car out there, but we’ve just been robbed of some vital points towards to the final stages of the series.”
